ANTWERP BURNING AS BATTLE RAGES

BRAVES WIN GAME

20,000 GERMANS FALL IN ATTACK

Antwerp is burning under the fire o e German bombardment. A Rotterdam dispatch t e London Star this afternoon says that the fire s reached tremendous proportions; that desperate fighting is proceeding while the city burns, and that a gun from one of the forts smashed a Zeppelin airship.

Twenty thousand Germans are reported to have been killed and wounded in the charge by which the Belgian defence along the river Nethe was finally overthrown.

German aircraft are hovering over Antwerp and the bombardment of the city from the air is continuous. A score or more of fires have been started by these aerial bombs, many of which are filled with petrol, says a dispatch from Ghent.

The bombardment that began Thursday morning continues with terrific effect, but the gunners defending the Belgian stronghold are replying vigorously. Flames broke out last night in parts of the city lying between the Palace of Justice and the South railroad station. The suburb of Borgerhout is burning and the suburbs of Linth and Bouchot, which lie between the Nethe river and the inner circle of forts, have been practically destroyed.

The glare of the flames during the night could plainly be seen at Rosendael, Holland, according to a dispatch from the latter city.

ANOTHER AIR RAID IN GERMANY.

While the Germans keep up their bombardment night and day the Belgian army, led by King Albert, is harassing them from the west of Antwerp. Fierce fighting is reported in progress along the river Scheldt. The German force attacking Antwerp is said to number 200,000.

While the Germans are smashing away at the inner defences of Antwerp, their cavalry is making an encircling movement to the northeast. They have occupied Turnhout, which brings them close to the Dutch frontier. Their Uhlans have also been seen east of Ostend. A German aeroplane of the Taube type was seen over Ostend late yesterday.

The German official report, issued in Berlin at midnight, announces the capture of Fort Brindoni, before Antwerp. It also states that an aviator demolished the cover of the Duesseldorf airship shed by dropping a bomb on it. In this connection a dispatch received in Amsterdam from Cologne says:

"Hostile aeroplanes threw bombs at the Zeppelin hangers at

RUDOLPH PITCHES FOR BRAVES; BENDER IS KNOCKED OUT

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The Braves drew first blood in the opening battle of the World's Series. In the second inning Whitted walked, Gowdy drove a lusty double to the left-field stand, and Maranville singled. Whitted and Gowdy scored. The Athletics came back with a run in the same inning, on Moran's error. Hair-raising fielding by the Bostonians kept them from getting more.

By FRANK G. MENKE.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—While the sun shone brightly on high, the Braves and Athletics battled here this afternoon in the first game of the World's Series before a crowd numbering 26,000, that filled every inch of seating space in the enclosure.

With Bender and Rudolph on the firing line for the rival teams, the fans sat back confident of seeing one of the greatest pitching duels that ever characterized a World's Series game.

Both teams went through a snappy practice and every man seemed on edge for this crucial game. A band and a quartette of youths armed with megaphones kept the crowd entertained during the batting sessions.

The crowd arrived early. At 1:30 o'clock there were only few vacant seats in the stand. The crowd was in good voice, loosening yelps of applause after every good play in practice.

About three hundred Bostonians, carrying the "Royal Rooters" banner and whooping things up for the dear old Hub, made a hit when they arrived at the grounds headed by John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor.

As soon as they had taken their places in the seats allotted to them they made gallant efforts to drown out the noise made by the Athletic rooters.

The Philadelphia rooters were impartial in their applause however, and Maranville, the midget Boston shortstop, was given an ovation by them as well as by the Boston fans when he pulled off some hair-raising stops and catches during the practice.

COLLINS PRESENTED WITH AUTO.

Deal, who plays third for Boston in place of "Red" Smith, whose leg was broken Tuesday, showed poorly in practice. He made a pair of fooles and two wild heaves. Boston rooters said he would be there with the goods, however, when the game started.

Just before the game began Eddie Collins was presented with an auto, given to him for proving himself the most valuable players to his team in the American League.

Captain Johnny Evers of the Braves and Ed Plank, one of the grand old ruins of the game, according to many statisticians, were posed back of the plate, and pictured very assiduously, to the accompaniment of general and hearty applause.

And the Braves' practicing was startling in its brilliancy. Time and again the "Rabbit" made his copyrighted stops and throws, going to right and left and into the air and getting everything. Right with him was Captain Johnny Evers, Charlie Deal and "Big" Schmidt.

Detailed Story of the Game

FIRST INNING.

Braves—When Moran went to bat there was not an empty seat in the park. Bill James was coaching at first and Mitchell at third. The first ball was a curve on the inside, which Moran did not swing at. It was called a strike. He fouled the second, but the third, which was high and on the inside, passed for a ball. He fouled the fourth, and on the fifth he popped an easy foul to McInnis. Evers hit the first ball pitched, a fast one, to short right and Eddie Collins ran back and got it. Connolly struck out on three pitched balls. He let the first one go by, fouled off the second and missed his swing at the third, a sharp low-breaking curve. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Athletics—Rudolph's first pitch was a fast one on the outside edge, which Murphy let go for a strike. The second was a spitter, which Murphy whacked to centre with the cleanest kind of a hit. Rudolph made several useless attempts to catch Murphy napping off first. Rudolph fooled Oldring into going for a wide curve. His next delivery was a ball which almost hit Oldring in the head. The Rube laid down a perfect sacrifice on the next pitch, Schmidt making a very fine stab of Gowdy's high throw. Eddie Collins let a low spitter go by for a ball and had Rudolph in a hole. The next one was wild and almost broke away from Gowdy. After another ball, Rudolph managed to get over one strike, but the fourth was inside and Collins walked. Baker lifted the first ball pitched over toward the first base pavilion. Schmidt went over, and, after making a brilliant catch, threw perfectly on the bound to Deal, who tagged out Murphy, who tried to advance after the catch. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING.

Braves—Whitted let three balls go by. All of them were high and on the inside. He then took two strikes and walked on the next ball pitched. Schmidt lifted a long fly to Oldring on the first ball pitched. Gowdy watched three wild ones go by, swung at one and took a called strike before he lined a screeching double to the wall in left centre, on which Whitted easily made the first run. Maranville smashed the first ball pitched right over second base and Gowdy came over with another run. After missing a vicious lunge at a curve, Deal rapped a hopping bounder at Barry, who threw to Collins, forcing the Rabbit. Eddie's sharp peg to first doubled up Deal, McInnis making a nifty pickup. TWO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Athletics—Rudolph could not get a strike over on McInnis and he walked. With the count two and one on Strunk, he shot a line single to right. When Moran let the ball go through his legs to the fence, McInnis scored and Strunk made third. After pitching one wide to Barry, Rudolph fanned him with a spitter and two slow curves. Schang bounced one at Evers. Johnny came in on the dead run and got the ball to Gowdy, nailing Strunk at the plate on a hair line decision. After letting the first ball go by for a strike and watching two wide ones, Bender hit between third and short. Maranville got over fast, however, and by a quick underhand toss to Evers forced Schang at second. ONE RUN, ONE HIT, ONE ERROR.

THIRD INNING.

Braves—After missing a swing and fouling off a couple, Rudolph grounded to Bender. The "Chief" fumbled the ball, but recovered it in time to get the Boston pitcher at first. Bender gave Moran three bad balls. Then shot over two good strikes. Moran fouled one, but missed the following pitch. Evers let a strike go by, took one ball and then lifted a sharp fly to Oldring. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Athletics—Rudolph had evidently recovered his great control. He fanned Murphy easily on four pitched balls, three of which were strikes. He followed suit by making Oldring fan. He completely fooled him with a change of pace and a slow curve. Rudolph forced Collins to hit one to the box when the count was three and two. Though the ball was hit fairly hard, Rudolph had no trouble knocking it down and getting Eddie at first. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING.

Braves—Joe Connolly was given a royal hand by the Royal Rooters when he came to the plate. He let the first perfect strike pass, fouled the second ball, waited out two balls, then bumped a single over Eddie Collins' head. Whitted hit the first ball pitched right at Bender and another double play was in order, Barry taking the Indian's throw at second, forcing Connolly and then throwing to McInnis, easily getting Whitted. McInnis took the heave with his gloved hand while standing tiptoe on the bag. After two strikes were called on him, Schmidt grounded to Collins and died at first. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

Athletics—Baker fouled off a couple, ducked a high and then, missed a slow curve right over the pan hitfully a foot. The same kind of a de was in order for McInnis. He ju ticked two fouls on the outside or ner, and for his third strike went after one almost over his head. Strunk made his second hit, a hot single ov short on the first one pitched. B tried to make second, but Connolly recovered the ball on the run, an with a perfect throw to Maranville caught him at second. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

FIFTH INNING.

Braves—Gowdy did not waste an time and sent the Boston "fans" crazy when he hammered a lusty triple to deep centre far over Strunk's head. The ball hit the fence on the first bound. With the infield playing in Maranville waited out a couple, too a strike and then lined a vicious sin gle to right, on which Gowdy crossed the plate. The "Rabbit" was doubled up when Deal, after missing one attempt to bunt, popped a little fly into Bender's hands. Maranville had started for second on the pitch and had no chance to get back to first after Bender's throw. Rudolph struck out. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Athletics—With two strikes on him, Barry lifted a fly into short left field that looked certain to drop safe. Maranville, however, tore back and just got to the ball for a very startling catch. Rudolph gave Schang a couple of balls and then forced him to foul off a couple. He fanned him by shooting across a fast ball, which just broke over the outside corner of the plate. After Dineen had called a strike on him, which he showed by his actions he thought was a ball, Bender hoisted a high fly to Whitted in centre. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SIXTH INNING.

Braves—Barry made one of the greatest catches ever seen in the World's Series on Moran's foul back of third. He ran over across the foul line and while going like a race-horse stuck out his bare hand and got the ball about a foot above the ground. After fouling off one, Evers cracked a curve through the box and over second to centre for a clear single. Connolly walked. The second delivery was the only ball which Bender could get over the plate for him. Whitted smashed the second ball pitched on a line to the fence in right centre for a triple, both Evers and Connolly counting. Schmidt fouled one and then smashed a sizzling liner to short, which nearly knocked Barry's legs off on its way to left and Whitted crossed the rubber. With the redoubtable Gowdy coming up, Bender was then yanked out and Wyckoff went in to pitch. Gowdy let the first two balls pitched go by. Both were over. He then drew base when Wyckoff went suddenly wild. With the count two and two on Maranville, Schang threw to second trying to get Schmidt napping and only a great pickup by Barry saved the catcher an error. As Wyckoff wound up, Schmidt and Gowdy started to steal, Maranville hit to the pitcher who foolishly threw to third long after Schmidt had arrived there and the bases were full. Deal hit to Baker who tagged third forcing Gowdy and then shot the ball to McInnis in time to complete the fourth Athletic double play. THREE RUNS, THREE HITS, NO ERRORS.

Athletics—Murphy hit a slow grounder to Evers, for which Johnny came in fast and got the ball to first just in time with a quick throw. Oldring took one strike and then grounded to Deal and died at first. After getting two strikes on Collins, Rudolph gave him three balls, trying to put across a spitter. Collins hit the next one softly back of the box and was easily thrown out by Rudolph. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

REPORT KING ALBERT WOUNDED.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A wireless from Berlin states that King Albert has been badly wounded while leading the Belgian Army.

ANTWERP IS SET ON FIRE BY GERMAN BOMBARDMENT

GREATEST CAVALRY BATTLE IN HISTORY

Cologne and Dusseldorf Thursday afternoon. The former was uninjured, but damage was inflicted at Dusseldorf."

ARRAS PARTLY DESTROYED.

Paris reports that the fighting at the northwestern end of the Aisne battle line has developed into the greatest cavalry engagement in history. French cavalry, which is now getting its first real test of the war, supported by English cavalry, is pitted against heavy masses of German Uhlans supported by Austrian cavalry, flung forward through Germany in the supreme effort to crush the allied army.

In France the Germans have been compelled to give ground near Soissons, losing strong positions and heavy guns, but the invaders, at last reports, were still holding their positions at Roye, where fighting is furious night and day.

Arras, one of the finest old cities in northeastern France, has been partly destroyed by a great artillery duel which is still raging there between French and Germans.

That the Allies are meeting with continued progress in their flanking movement near the Franco-Belgian border is indicated by the official statement issued in Paris at 3 o'clock this afternoon, although it states that the general situation has undergone no change. It states that the cavalry forces of the two armies are now operating north of Lille. A dispatch from Bordeaux to the Paris Figaro says:

"An orderly German retreat, accompanied by violent fighting, seems to have begun from heavy transfers of troops from the north of the Aisne to Northern France."

REPORT PRZEMYSL HAS FALLEN.

A news agency dispatch received in London from Rome says a message from Petrograd announces the fall of Przemysl, the great Austrian fortress in Galicia. It declares that the commander at Przemysl surrendered as a result of several of the forts there being destroyed, to save the lives of his men. This report is received with reserve in London and is discredited by an Austrian official report which says the Russians have been repulsed at Przemysl.

Petrograd announces that the great battle between the Russian and Austro-German armies is in full swing along the Vistula north of Cracow. News of a raid by ten Cossack regiments south of Tarnow and southeast of Cracow indicates that the Russians are inaugurating a flanking movement in Galicia to force the Austro-German forces north of the Vistula and weaken the centre of their line.

CAVALRY BATTLE PROCEEDS NORTH OF LILLE, SAYS PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The government's official report of war operations, issued at 3 p. m., follows:

OFFICIAL.

The general situation has undergone no change. On our left wing the two cavalry forces are operating continually at the north of Lille and La Bassee, and the battle continues on the line marked by the regions of Lens, Arras, Bray-sur-Somme, Chaulnes, Roye and Lassigny.

At the centre, from the Oise to the Meuse, there are only minor enagements.

On our right, in the Woevre region, there has been an artillery battle along the entire front. In Lorraine, in the Vosges and in Alsace there is no change.

In Bosnia the Montenegrin troops continue their advance in the direction of Sarajevo, having reached the fortified line which protects the city at a distance of eight kilometres (about five miles.)

AUSTRIA REPORTS DEFEAT OF RUSSIANS NEAR PRZEMYSL

VIENNA, via Berlin and Amsterdam, Oct. 9.—An official statement issued at the War Office today follows:

OFFICIAL.

Our troops have made further advances and yesterday they repulsed the enemy on the road to Przemysl, near Haryog, west of Dynow. Rzeszow has been recaptured and guns taken.

In the territory between the River Vistula and the River San we took many prisoners from the fleeing Russians.

The renewed violent attacks on Przemysl have been splendidly repulsed and the enemy's dead and wounded are counted by the thousands.

We have had victorious battles at Saigel, in Marmaros County, Hungary, and in East Galicia. The Landsturm and the Polish legionaries rivalled each other in gallantry.

To Raze Old "Spite Wall" of Wolfeboro

WOLFEBORO, Oct. 10.—Wolfeboro's famous "spite wall," built in 1870, is to be razed. It was built by Stephen Durgin, after the Widow Lee had refused to sell him her hotel, the Sheridan House, which adjoined his tavern. She wanted $12,000, and he offered $10,000. The revels of her guests annoyed him. He spent $2,500 building the wall.

BRITISH FLYING CORPS IS DROPPING BOMBS ON GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Daring operations by the British royal flying corps are revealed in a narrative issued by the government press bureau today on the work of the English expeditionary force in France. This statement supplements the one which was issued last Saturday and it follows:

OFFICIAL.

Wednesday, September 30, was distinguished by no activity beyond slight attacks by the Germans and intermittent artillery fire. British airmen dropped nine bombs, some of which fell upon the enemy's rolling stock, destroying it.

The following day, Thursday, was one of the most peaceful since the two forces first clashed on the Aisne. There was only desultory gunfire. A French aviator dropped a bomb upon the railway station (name of locality not given), and three other bombs upon German troops massed nearby. On Friday the weather was very misty. The English, taking advantage of the fog, attacked a German outpost, which was occupying a mill, and drove it back. The German machine guns were silenced by our artillery. During the night the Germans, as usual, made two attacks against the same spot, but both were repulsed. Our troops made a counter attack and captured two German trenches. The German resistance was so weak that our casualties were only six men wounded.

ATTACK BEGINS ON ANTWERP INNER FORTS, SAYS BERLIN REPORT

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Oct. 9.—A statement issued at the War Office at midnight says:

OFFICIAL.

From the western scene of war no facts of decisive importance can be mentioned. Small progress has been made near St. Mihiel and in the Argonnes. Before Antwerp Fort Brindont (to the south of Antwerp) has been taken and the attack of the inner fort line has begun therewith. The bombardment of the quarter of the town lying behind was begun after the declaration of the commander of the stronghold that he took the responsibility.

The airship hall of Dusseldorf has been hit by a bomb thrown by a hostile aviator. The roof of the hall was pierced and the cover of one airship in the hall was demolished.

In the East the Russian column is marching from Lomza (Russian Poland) and has reached Lyck (in East Prussia, just beyond the frontier and almost directly west from Augustowo).

MISS HANAN'S DUKE ASSAILS SISTER-IN-LAW

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Duke Arturo de Majo Durrazzo, who threatened to "expose" the Hanan family after Elizabeth Frances Hanan, his bride of a few months, had sued him for divorce, alleging he was a convicted thief, has today made his "exposure," which amounts to this: that Mrs. John H. Hanan, wife of the multi-millionaire shoe manufacturer, knew of the alleged theft and advised him "not to bother about it."

The Duke said today the Hanan family's statement of the cause of the action did not tell everything.

"For instance," he said, "the Hanan family offered me $25 a week for life. But what is $25 to me! What I wanted was a wife."

The Duke is staying at No. 12 East Forty-fourth street.

DUKE REPAID MONEY.

The Duke declares he is not a thief.

In explanation of the charge that he was arrested in Paris for embezzlement, the Duke says that in April, 1912, he had in his possession 2,039 francs belonging to his employer in Paris. A relative who needed some money appealed to him and he sent the 2,039 francs. At the same time he wrote to his employer explaining what he had done and promising to repay the money. This promise was kept, the Duke says.

He affirms that he did not know any proceedings had been taken against him in Paris, so that he entered into the marriage in perfect good faith.

Elliot Norton, the Duke's counsel, said today: "He will defend the suit to the utmost. He has a complete defence. When this defence is presented it will be seen why the Hanan family was so anxious to get their side of the case before the public."

His answer to the divorce suit, on file at White Plains today, says:

"Mrs. Hanan was greatly in favor of said marriage and largely instrumental in bringing it about. He told her of what he had done and she advised him not to bother about it and assured him that on his repaying said person the said sum, no person could criticize him severely."

DENIES JURISDICTION.

On the Duke's return to this country, this Summer, he says in his affidavit he was affectionately welcomed and delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanan in their home at Narragansett Pier, and from there was invited to the Hotel Belmont here where the Hanans were temporarily making their home, while in New York, and took rooms in the hotel at their expense. At the hotel, he swears, he saw the Duchess several times, and they discussed their incompatibility but never the crime charged in France.

Mr. Hanan about this time, the answer declares, proposed to the Duke that the latter agree to a collusive suit for divorce, and that he did agree to it until he had been "properly advised," when he withdrew from the agreement. Later, the Duke swears, the Duchess' lawyer threatened to shadow the Duke in the hope of getting evidence for a divorce action. He was, he says, offered a weekly allowance if he would agree not to contest the suit now pending, but he would not consent.

It is contended by the Duke that he did not know until his return to France as a bridegroom that any legal action had been taken on his larceny from the Paris hotel keeper, who had employed him, and that when he learned of it, after his arrest in Monaco, he asked an attorney what he should do and was advised to take an appeal to clear his name, but that he was forbidden to do so by Mr. Hanan.

"The answer is introduced by a motion to dismiss the case on the ground that United States Courts have no jurisdiction. The Duke's attorney points out that by her marriage to a subject of Italy, Miss Hanan is amenable to the laws of Italy, "where she enjoys the rights, privileges and perquisites of a Duchess."

"DIFFERENCE IN AGES."

Furthermore, the Duke declares Miss Hanan was not a citizen of New York when she was married.

Both sides admit that the Duke prior to the wedding made no claim for a share of her property. Lawyers said today that under the Italian law he is entitled to one-third of her estate.

Should the marriage be annulled, the Duke pleads, that decision will not hold in Italy, where he will still be regarded as married, and should he again be married, neither his wife nor his children will be recognized in his native land.

"The great discrepancy in our years and differences in our tastes and desires," the answer continues, "made the marriage a horrible union to both of us, and after many discussions, we came to the conclusion that a separation was inevitable."

HOLD CHARLTON GUARDS IN NOTE PLOT AT PRISON

COMO, Italy, Oct. 9.—Porter Charlton, the young American wife slayer, who has been awaiting trial here for more than a year, is in trouble with the prison authorities. Two special guards, assigned to watch over him, have been arrested on a charge of tampering with the machinery of justice.

Charlton has been deprived of many privileges. Now he has only a half-hour of exercise and is in solitary confinement. Formerly a Mrs. Serividio, wife of an Italian Army captain—an American woman whose son by a first marriage was a school chum of Charlton—sent the young American a daily tray of delicacies from her own table. He must now content himself with prison fare.

Charlton is accused of inducing his guards to smuggle letters to his father and lawyer, Mr. Talbert of New York. The guards were suspected and watched, and two of Charlton's letters were seized.

Hold Boston Youths on Jersey Robbery; Taxi Bills Clews

Two Boston youths will miss the World's Series clash today. When arrested in Philadelphia they said they were George A. Greatrux, eighteen, Elliot street, and Myron Parker, nineteen, of Shawmut avenue, Boston. The arrest was made by detectives who received word from chauffeurs of taxicabs that the young men were spending $25 and $40 nightly riding about the city.

The prisoners are said to have admitted robbing a broker's office in Red Bank, N. J., of $250.

The money, the police say, was spent for taxicabs and cafe bills.

BARONESS, IN HUB, DEFENDS THE KAISER

"My country was forced into this war and we are depending on God to see us through," declared Baroness Eva Von Blomberg of Germany today at her apartments at No. 118 Charles street. The Baroness arrived in New York Wednesday aboard the steamer Ryndam. Before leaving Germany she had seen her only brother, Baron Von Blomberg, march away to the front.

"This great conflict will result in universal peace," declares the Baroness. "People in the United States have no idea of the terrible slaughter. What hurts us Germans most is to think that England is fighting side by side with Russia against us.

"The Kaiser is not to blame for this great conflict. He was forced to fight. War could not be averted. The Russians had planned to strike in 1916, but were forced to strike sooner. Germany was progressing too fast to please them."

"OVERRUN BY SPIES."

The Baroness said she was with her brother in Switzerland when war was declared.

"As soon as we heard that there was to be war we returned to my brother's home in Kosten, near Posen, which is near the Russian frontier," said the Baroness.

"After my brother went to the front I went to Weimer. Our country was overrun by Russian spies. This was nothing new, for years previous to the war Russia had a great many spies among us. We knew years ago that war was bound to come, but we did not know it.

"In this country we hear a great deal said about the German violating the neutrality of Belgium. There are many people in Germany who believe the neutrality should not have been violated, but the true condition that existed is not generally known.

"I have been told that the French were allowed to cross Belgium to reconnoiter and that plans had been made before war was declared for England to land troops there. The Germans saw that the right way to strike France was through Belgium and they took that course.

DEPENDS KAISER.

"The Germans can understand why France and Russia are in this conflict, but they cannot understand why England is fighting against them.

"A great deal is said about militarism in Germany. Germany did not seek war. It had nothing to gain by war. The Kaiser was known by the title 'Prince of Peace' before he assumed peace. The Kaiser had been called the War Lord. It is a Greek word and translated means Great Commander. The Kaiser is a great commander, but he was a great man for peace.

MANY WRITE TO THE MOTHER OF MAINE BEAUTY

HOULTON, Me., Oct. 9.—Mrs. George Sullivan, mother of Mildred Sullivan, "the prettiest girl in Aroostook county," is receiving many letters of sympathy, both from friends and from persons unknown to her, who are moved by her uncertainty over her daughter's fate.

These letters are being sent not only from Maine, but from other New England States. Mrs. Sullivan, who has been under a doctor's care owing to the strain of a month's anxiety over Mildred's case, spends much time in reading the letters.

The girl's mother and grandmother said today they had come to believe more strongly than ever that Mildred was alive and would be located yet. They place strong hopes in the clew growing from the story of a girl chum of Mildred that she saw her on a Bangor street.

A letter postmarked from Lynn, received today, said:

DEAR MADAM: I can't resist writing you any longer. Your poor little girl speaks from the spirit world and says: "Mother, don't worry about me; I'm sleeping in the bottom of Mosquito Pond. Am much better off. Don't cry, dear mother. I'm happy, for my spirit is with you always. I shall sometimes appear to Kate in spirit form. She will know me. I shall come to you at times, often in your dreams.

My body can never be recovered. It is too deep out here. Don't go to that woman any more, she can't tell you anything about me. Try to be reconciled, mother darling, we shall meet sometime. Goodbye, dear mother, father; goodbye.

367 Men's New Fall Suits

At Less Than the Maker's Average Wholesale Price

GOOD Suits, good as gold dollars. Note how smooth the edges are, and the collars and shoulders—that's because they are hand tailored. Every garment is warranted—every thread all wool.

$11.50

JUST bought the odd Suits from two well known Rochester, N. Y., tailoring houses—some of the suits bear the maker's label. The values are very exceptional for standard brands of clothes.

NOTE—Last season we announced a similar opportunity in the basement—not quite so good—and the event was a record. We expect to go one better today and Saturday.

Unusual bargains today and Saturday in Men's Topcoats $8.75, $9.75, $10 and $12.50

Fabrics

Ninety per cent of the suits are pure worsteds. The kind that will wear as long as a man cares to wear a suit—the tight, close weaving of the cloth insuses that. Men like its smooth feel. The rest of the suits are strictly all wool cassimeres or cheviots.

Patterns

Sixty-six different patterns in sizes from 33 to 50! That's because these suits were the overcuts and odd garments after the season's orders were filled. Variety enough to please almost any man. The cut is conservative. The lines natural. The colors dark. The effect dignified.

Today and Saturday are Dividend Days in the Basement—Better walk through early!

HOMANS SEES FAME FOR SELF IN HOGAN CASE

Robert Homans, society man and State street lawyer, believes he is marked for the future as "the man who opposed the Hogans."

"I suppose that wherever my name comes before the public it will at once be picked as the man in the Hogan case," declared Mr. Homans when seen by an AMERICAN reporter at his office, No. 53 State street, today.

Mr. Homans is a member of the law firm of Hill, Barlow & Homans. If any one thinks that Robert Homans is a "crouch," because he doesn't want the Hogans to become Homans, they are mistaken, for he is a very pleasant man to meet.

"When I entered an appearance in the Probate Court I did not know whether I should seriously oppose the Hogan petition or not," he said. "I had no idea that such a matter could be given so much publicity."

When asked if he would object if the "S" is dropped and the Hogans become Homan, Mr. Homans said: "I don't see how I could object, that is not my name."

DAMON, AUTO RACER, IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

The romance leading to the secret marriage in Providence in 1910 of Harold A. Damon, formerly of Medford, who won fame as an automobile road racer, and Winifred Gertrude Allen of Everett has ended. Mrs Damon has filed suit for divorce in Dedham.

Mrs. Damon alleges in her libel that in August, 1911, or seventeen months after the marriage, her husband ceased to provide for her and that this continued up to the time of her filing the libel. Damon first came into prominence as an auto speedster in 1908. They motored to Providence for their wedding.

Girls Take Ducks Into New York Hotel Bathroom

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—When Miss Jennie Libbey and her sister from Masardis, Maine, arrived at the Hotel Laurel, they insisted upon a large bath-room and a large tub. Both visitors were slender, and why they wanted an extra large tub puzzled the clerk.

The solution came when Manager Nobles met the chambermaid at the door of the sisters' room marshalling four wet ducks that had just waddled out of the bath-room.

Miss Jennie said it is because her elder sister is not in good health and the doctor has said she must have every day eggs that are only a few hours old. She had brought the ducks to insure having eggs warm from the nest.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look to your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you 90 per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

4 DORCHESTER GIRLS END WALK OF 210 MILES

Misses Jeanette and Anna MacDougall and Alice and Augusta Nelson, of No. 12 Calder street, Dorchester, were taken charge of by friends on completing a 210-mile walk from Fabyan, the Carroll, New Hampshire resort, to their home.

The girls walked all the way except for half a mile, just outside of Bridgeford, Me., when they rode on a coal team. They slept in the woods under blankets almost every night, and at South Berwick were kept awake by the howling of wild cats, which smelled the bacon the girls had been cooking.

Two nights when it rained the girls crept into hayloffs and slept there. They cooked their food in camping fashion and report they had "the very best time ever."

It took them a week to make the journey. The best time they made was on the final day, when they walked twenty-seven miles from Pride's Crossing. Next Summer they plan to go from Boston to Nova Scotia on horseback.

Pickpockets at G. O. P. Convention

WORCESTER, Oct. 9.—Pickpockets during the gathering of delegates to the Republican convention here stole $30 from Solomon Rosenberg, New Bedford, and $67 from Franklin Priest, Haverhill. Rosenberg is an attorney, while Priest is acknowledged leader in Haverhill.

HUNT 6 MEN IN JAIL BREAK AT HOULTON

HOULTON, Me., Oct. 9.—A wholesale jail delivery was averted within the last week at the Aroostook County jail here, solely by the sentinel of the majority of the prisoners.

Six men who had been bound over for the November term of the Grand Jury escaped. They are being hunted. All were in for minor offenses. Their names would not be learned when the secret was discovered by a reporter for the AMERICAN.

Every one of the fifty-five prisoners could have fled at night as did the fugitive six, but forty-nine refused the opportunity, although the cell door of each had been thrown open by the prisoner who operated the automatic lock, and an exit had been forced in the rear.

Two or three trusties decided in the thrill of kindness and temptation of the moment to stand their ground and thus repay the kindness of Sheriff Elmer Bryson and Turnkey Henry D. Smart, both of whom were away from the premises at the time.

These trusties dominated all but the six. Among those who could have escaped were three alleged murderers and others charged with grave offenses which will be taken up at the November sitting of the Aroostook County Grand Jury.

The Cote brothers, Louis and Herbert, aged thirteen and nine, who are charged with first-degree murder for the alleged killing of Hartley Webb, age nine, at Presque Isle on June 11, could have escaped, as could the young man who is alleged to have killed his sweetheart at Caribou in July.

But after they listened to hurried exhortations of the cool-headed trusties who emphasized the fact that they would all be caught again and receive added punishment, the half hundred excited prisoners returned to their cells and waited until the bolts had been driven again by a trusty, securing them all.

Next day the officials were astounded and grateful. Since then a night watch has been installed for the first time in the jail. It having been the custom to lock up the wing tight as a drum every night, turn out the lights and leave the prisoners to their fate until morning. Townspeople thought this a dangerous practice in case of fire.

Since Tuesday Deputy Sheriff Gulou has been put on night duty. He got an anonymous letter informing him that the outside confederates of the prisoners were aware of his new visit. Dandelion has turned to tobacco now. Arrests are looked for.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't take much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

A Maker of Coats—in New York Sends Us a Lot of

Misses' and Girls' School Coats

In 100 Different Materials

Similar coats by the same maker have sold in Boston recently for $10.00.

And They Were Worth $10.00

But this coat maker is suddenly faced with the necessity of raising a large sum of money, and sacrifices these coats in order to do so.

This illustrates only one of the hundreds of coats in this sale.

His Proposition Fairly Took Our Breath Away

He Said:

"Sell Them for ~~$7.50 Wednesday~~"

That's $2.50 less than they sold for right here in Boston.

If that doesn't dispose of them—

"Sell What's Left for ~~$7.00 Thursday~~"

If you have any left by night

"Sell Them for $6.50 Friday"

Then—if any remain unsold

"Close Them Out for $6.00 Saturday"

Won't everybody wait until Saturday?

There probably won't be any left Saturday. People who want a great bargain like this won't risk losing it by waiting. To save a half dollar or a dollar they may lose out altogether.

So—Here They Are. We're Ready

Are You?

PLAN LARGEST STRUCTURE OF CONCRETE HERE

The largest concrete structure in the world—to be known as the Equitable Building—is planned on the site of the old gas house, Prince and Hull streets, to be occupied by sixteen of the largest manufacturers, grocers and other merchants in New England.

Work of demolishing the present buildings will commence almost immediately, and the structure, which will really be sixteen nine-story buildings under one roof, will be completed in about a year, at a cost of about $1,500,000, the promoters explained today.

Record for Company C in Wakefield Shoot

Company C of the First Corps of Cadets made a record at the annual rifle match of the organization at the Bay State military rifle range, scoring 622 at 200, 400 and 600 yards slow fire, and 870 at 200 and 500 yards rapid fire, a total of 1,492.

The highest total reached previously this season was made by Company G, Eighth Regiment, 1,432. The Appleton medal and the National Rifle Association medal were awarded to Private J. E. Stewart of the winning company, his scores being 45 and 184, respectively.

British Purchase of Sugar Sets a Record

LONDON, Oct. 9.—To avoid a sugar famine in consequence of the cessation of the supply from Germany, Austria and Belgium, the home secretary has purchased 300,000 tons of sugar at about $100 a ton. This is by far the largest purchase of sugar in the world's history. The sugar is to be sold at cost price to refiners.

ARREST OF TWO CLOSES BEAUTY PARLOR IN 'LIFT'

The girl stenographers at No. 75 State street found their elevator beauty parlor closed today.

Harry J. Simmons, elevator boy and unofficial beauty doctor, was under arrest, charged with larceny of postage stamps. His arrest had been caused by the previous arrest of Maurice Williams, charged with larceny of perfumery.

The Willis H. Lowe Company, perfumers at No. 251 Atlantic avenue, where Williams is employed, has been missing goods. The Massachusetts Bonding Company at No. 75 State street has been missing stamps.

When Simmons was brought to the station house Williams, the perfumery prisoner, explained the game, according to Captain Sullivan, as follows:

Williams exchanged perfumery goods for stamps on a two-for-one basis. A fifty-cent bottle of perfumery was swapped for $1 worth of new stamps.

Then Simmons admitted, the police say, that he was running an amateur beauty parlor as well as an elevator. He kept a select stock of cosmetics in the car for stenographer girls who wished to give their complexions the "once over" before going in for work or out for lunch. Simmons had a scale of prices, adjusted to the purses of his patrons, about like this:

Lip rouge—5 cents.
Dash of powder—5 cents.
Dash of perfumery—5 cents.
Small bottle perfumery—15 cents.
Powder puff (to keep)—10 cents.

Simmons did a cash business. The police found $155.35 cents on him.

Williams and Simmons were scheduled to come into the City Court today. Meanwhile the stenographer girls at No. 75 State street are a bit pale today.

WAR PERSONALS AND SIDELIGHTS

DR. NEVILLE M. HOPKINS, an American volunteer for medical service, has returned home, broken down by the sights of the battlefield at Mons.

M. DE BARRAT, Burgomaster of Lanaeken, Belgium, has died from a bullet wound.

BARON MURRAY, former Liberal whip, says the service rendered by the American Red Cross workers will never be forgotten.

PRESIDENT POINCARE of France, who passed through Paris, visited the American ambulance and was struck by the excellence of the surgical methods.

MRS. J. P. MORGAN, just back from Liverpool, spent many hours on the voyage across knitting socks for the soldiers.

PREMIER VIVIANI expresses the complete satisfaction which his visit to the general headquarters of the French and British armies gave him.

MRS. CUNLIFFE OWEN is financing a sportsman battalion for which the age limit has been especially extended. Among the well-known men enrolled as privates are Sir Norman Pringle, Sir William Wallace, Sir Robert Newman and two sons of peers.

WOMEN VOLUNTEER.

TOKIO, Oct. 9.—One hundred women shell divers of Shima province offered their services to the navy to clear the mines from Kiaochau bay. The offer was declined by the navy, as the law prohibits the employment of women in war operations.

$55 A SECOND.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—"This war is costing the country $55 per second, day and night," said Sydney Webb, a political economist in a lecture.

PHOTOGRAPHER FAILS.

Cherry Kearton, who was in Alost during the German bombardment, says:

"I tried to get pictures of shells exploding, but it was next on the film."

CAN'T CHANGE NAMES.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—By a special order in council any Germans or Austrians engaged in business here who since the outbreak of the war have adopted English names will be required after October 12 to resume the use of their own names.

GAS, HEARTBURN, INDIGESTION OR A SICK STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

Time it! Pape's Diapepsin will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach surely within five minutes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you eat. Then will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapepsin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.—ADVERTISEMENT.

STOCKHOLDERS ASKED TO HELP N.H. PUBLICITY

Stockholders of the New Haven Railroad are urged by President Elliott in his report on the fiscal year ending June 30 to inform themselves about the situation of the company; to explain the difficulties in their respective communities, and to use their active influence to help the management in its efforts to reduce expenses and to increase rates slightly.

A striking feature is the emphatic declaration that the New Haven never burned its books or did anything to interfere with the investigation of its concerns.

The net operating revenue decreased $2,252,821.00. This was made up of a decrease in operating revenue of $3,995,810.26, and an increase in operating expenses of $1,289,010.84.

Freight revenue fell off 4.6 per cent, passenger revenue 1.8 per cent, and express revenue 9.7 per cent during the year.

Another big loss came from "outside operations," the revenue from which decreased $559,967.17, "largely because the Pullman Company operated equipment formerly operated by the railroad."

The cost of fuel was cut down $356,-045.96 during the year. Loss and damage of all kinds amounted to eight cents a train mile, or $1,966,-462.64.

Injuries to persons cost the road "the large sum of $1,181,735.59." There remains to pay for other accidents, however, over $1,000,000 in the accident and casualty reserve.

Arraign Boston Jeweller.

Edward H. Randall, a jeweller, of No. 520 Massachusetts avenue, will be arraigned today charged with receiving stolen goods. The police allege articles found in his store were taken from the home of Isaac Dimond of No. 451 Walnut avenue, Jamaica Plain.

CHILD SUFFERED WITH SKIN TROUBLE

Looked Awful. Rough and Red. Skin Would Break and Itch. Very Painful. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Healed.

31 Unit St., Providence, R. I.—"My child's face looked awful. It was all scurvy, rough and red and you could peel it off. The skin would break and itch and she would cry with it. It was so painful. She suffered like that for about two months and it would itch so that she would scratch and rub it off.

"I tried different things until one day my husband said, 'Why don't you try Cuticura Soap and Ointment?' That same day I wrote for a sample and then my husband bought some more Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I put the Cuticura Ointment on her face, left it for a half hour and then washed it with Cuticura Soap. That night she rested fine and the next day was looking much better. I kept it up and within three or four weeks they completely healed her. "Every time I combed my hair it would come out in handfuls. I rubbed the Cuticura Ointment into the scalp night and morning for three weeks and used the Cuticura Soap in shampooing. Now I can comb my hair all the time and I will not have a single hair on the comb." (Signed) Mrs. Emma Arthur Collins, Jan. 28, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

Although Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent free upon request. Address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?

USE ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in diet is the most preventive measure. As a relief for suffering we advise taking Anti-kamnia Tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one Anti-kamnia Tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and quiet.

Anti-kamnia may be obtained of all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all pains.

5,000 REVERE CHILDREN FOOD FAIR GUESTS

About 5,000 Revere school children were the guests today of the Pure Food and Domestic Science exposition in Mechanics Building.

Miss Bartholomew of Westboro today delighted the members of the Boston Social Union and their friends with school garden demonstrations, comprising the planting and cultivation of shrubs and flowers.

Senor Antonio Peraza y Medina, president of the City Council in Havana, was a pleased visitor at the fair. He is the personal representative at the exposition of Mayor Freire Andrade of Havana.

One of the curiosities of the fair is the volante, a peculiar type of carriage, used in Cuba. The one shown is one hundred years old and has always been the property of one family. Only the richest families possess a volante. Three horses are generally used in running it, one horse being ridden by a negro slave.

At the "Walk Over" shoe booth, they are showing a beautiful tango slipper, which is appealing to a number who must take the tango glide with the proper foot gear. It is a satin finish with gold back.

"Nut-Let" peanut butter of Norfolk, Va., made by the Bowman & Lohman Co., is a popular compound, as all the dirt, it is claimed, is taken out of the peanut before eating.

"How-to-put-your-bed-in-a-closet-when-you're-sleeping-in-the-room," is the trick put out by Jackson & Newton Company of this city in an ingenious scheme which makes a bed never stand in one's way.

Here Charles A. Lawes will talk about a vegetable knife to a crowd of women around his booth. "Charley" has the gift of the "gab" and makes the women smile as he tells them how to decorate their tables with potato peelings through the skill of his particular knife.

Miss L. Millen tells how to chase away bacteria in households with a chemical preparation, which decorates the booth where pure air is talked about all day long.

At the AMERICAN booth, many stood and read the history of this newspaper from its start in Boston and what it has aimed to accomplish for the public interests of Boston and New England.

Miss Helen Gillbrey answers all the questions.

Child Dies Trying to Stop Cart Wheel

A three-year-old boy named George W. Voye, Jr., playing near his home on Whitney park, Dorchester, saw a big rubbish wagon coming along to collect rubbish from barrels along the street. The little chap ran out, seized the spokes of the huge wheel and tried to stop the wagon. It was all in play for him; but the turning wheel threw him off its balance and passed over his head. He died almost instantly.

FLEXNER TELLS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS GERM

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 9.—Dr. Simon Flexner, head of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, speaking at the Johns Hopkins Hospital anniversary, added to what he has already said about his work on infantile paralysis.

A year ago Dr. Flexner said here that he believed that he had cultivated the germ of the dread disease.

Dr. Flexner now announces his belief that the disease is transmitted through the respiratory channels rather than by insects, as some have held, and he advanced the theory that perfectly healthy persons often carried the germ in their bodies and infected children; that there were "carriers" of infantile paralysis, just as it is known that there are "carriers" of typhoid and diphtheria, who while transmitting these diseases to others, do not suffer from them themselves.

Dr. Flexner also reports that, by cultivating the germ on a special kind of nourishing material, it became visible with a high-power microscope and that it was at least one-fifth the size of any known form of bacteria.

IL TROVATORE DELIGHTS ALL AT THE BOSTON

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ.

Melodious Il Trovatore was presented by the Boston Theatre Opera Company last night at the Boston Theatre in a manner to delight the hearts of the lovers of the Verdi opera. It was an excellent performance from every standpoint.

Kathryn Lyubrook as Leonora and Blanche Hamilton Fox as Azucena shared in the honors. Miss Fox was again a revelation and she used her rich contralto voice with splendid skill and effect.

Miss Lyubrook's tender heroine was more than satisfactory, as the plaudits of the audience evidenced again and again. Here is an exquisite soprano, wide in range and agreeable.

Giuseppi Operzo sang a Manrico of unusual merit. Good in his solo work, his voice was a joy in its facile blending with that of Miss Lyubrook and Miss Fox. Corradetti, the baritone, is an actor of vigor and intellect, and what he lacks in volume he more than makes up in the intelligent use of his voice. Joseph Florian is a mighty pleasing basso and his voice is good to hear. Miss Renis as Inez and Dante Rossi as Ruiz were acceptable.

Kitchener Clashes with Press Bureau

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Though it yesterday authorized publication of statements that Canadian troops had reached England the press bureau announced today that these statements were inaccurate. In this connection there are rumors of a clash between the War Office and the press bureau. Earl Kitchener is said to have given the press officials a jolt by informing them that they were telling too much about troops movements.

Boston Rooters Storm Quaker City

By F. J. McISAAC.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Among the arrivals in the City of Brotherly Love today are a band of gentlemen from cultured Boston. It seems that there is to be a ball game or something here today and the folks from Boston decided to come over.

The Royal Rooters had a hard night. They left Boston at 8:40 and arrived in New York about midnight. It is all right for men who have been cooped up in a train for hours to arrive in Boston or Philadelphia about midnight because there is nothing to do, but New York offers many distractions, and they attracted attention to themselves by parading down Broadway at midnight.

To say that the rooters were cooped up in the train does not, does not exactly express the facts. They were in a train but they were not cooped. The ride was long, but it was not monotonous. It was probably one of the liveliest rides ever experienced by the conductors and porters.

There was one thing mighty striking about the bunch. The usual idea of a fan is a wild-eyed man in a crushed straw hat. But the Royal Rooters don't fit that idea at all. They look like a delegation of bankers on the way to a convention, or like two hundred lawyers going to the Bar Association meetings, or like almost anything else than rabid baseball fans.

The explanation is simple enough. The Braves, by their tumultuous clambering climb from the cellar to the pinnacle have made fans grow where none grew before, and the Royal Rooters were simply all the fans that could get away.

There were doctors and lawyers, druggists and grocers, engineers and statesmen—samples of every activity you care to mention, but for the trip they laid aside their dignity and went at the good times with a relish.

There was rejoicing throughout the trip at the fact that President Jim Gaffney has succeeded in raising that extra 100 tickets. The Rooters were watching the news from the front mighty closely and that made, and when for a time it looked as though the extra 100 would not be forthcoming, there was general gloom.

Then came word—just before the trains pulled out—that Mr. Gaffney had succeeded in getting the tickets, and after that everything was rosy.

The extra tickets were allotted to the rooters, and taken up long before the train started. Everyone in the bunch was some in the knowledge that he had his ticket and that no speculator could trim him out of them.

CHEER FOR LANNIN.

In between times the Rooters took occasion to cheer President Joseph J. Lannin of the Red Sox for his sportsmanlike offer. Mr. Lannin had telegraphed to former Mayor Fitzgerald to bring the Rooters all along and if he couldn't get them seats, he would pay all their expenses anyway.

Drum-Major Jimmy Coughlin and Leader Harrington-Sargent led the Ninth Regiment Band out on the platform at Providence and the other stops for "Sweet Adeline" and "Tessie" and a parade up and down the platform. When the wheels began to turn there was a wild scramble to get back aboard.

At New London, the former Mayor led the parade up and down and all around, and at New Haven a bunch of Yale men, headed by Trainer Johnny Mack, were on hand to greet them. The Rooters had banners here labeled "Baltimore, 1857; Pittsburgh, 1901; New York, 1912; Philadelphia, 1914." And the sharp bark of the Yale cheer greeted them.

MIDNIGHT PARADE.

In New York, Mr. Fitzgerald gathered them round him and made a little speech that began: "Boston has never yet lost a championship series," and after that you couldn't hear him for the cheers.

Then came a midnight parade that startled the night-owls around the Grand Central station. The Rooters marched up Forty-second street and along Broadway and Forty-fifth street, then along Sixth avenue to Forty-third street, where they disbanded in front of the Elks' home—headquarters.

Girl Swimmers in Championship Races

Thirty-seven of the leading girl swimmers of Greater Boston will battle for indoor titles at the swimming meet to be held tomorrow evening at the Ocean Pier Baths, Revere, under the auspices of the Brookline Gym A. A. Five events are on the program, and all will be closely contested.

The relay championship race is attracting great attention, and this race will undoubtedly be the hardest fought contest in the history of girl swimming races. Tenean Beach, South Boston, East Boston, Savin Hill Beach, Curtis Hall, Cabot street, Brookline Gym and Ocean Pier Baths will be represented by fast teams. Miss Mary Maxwell, assisted by Miss Greenman, will given an exhibition of fancy swimming, and Miss Rose Pitnof will demonstrate the various strokes used in long-distance swimming.

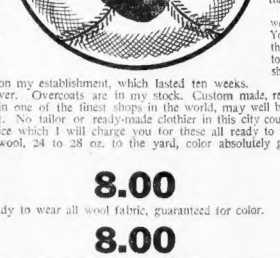
Overcoatings That Caused a Strike



Some time the middle of June a manufacturer came to me with a story, in effect, the following: "For twenty-five years I have been making clothing for one of New York's highest priced ready-made clothiers, who sold overcoats at prices averaging way beyond $30.00. They are at present quiet and busy shop is idle. If it were possible for you to give me a few thousand overcoats I will guarantee to give you the same labor I put in the aforesaid garments at about one-tenth and called a strike on my establishment, which lasted ten weeks.

My strike is now over. Overcoats are in my stock. Custom made, ready to wear out, these garments, hand needled in one of the finest shops in the world, may well be considered as classical examples of sartorial art. No tailor or ready-made clothier in this city could build equal garments at anywhere near the price which I will charge you for these all ready to wear.

Black Kerseys, all wool, 24 to 28 oz. to the yard, color absolutely guaranteed, all ready to wear.

8.00

Blue Chinchillas, ready to wear all wool fabric, guaranteed for color.

8.00

Plaid back coatings, Skinner's satin lined, some regular facings and some French facings.

10.00 to 12.75

Special! 7.25

I have a few hundred all-wool coatings which I have had made into Balmacaans, all sizes in these garments, just as much style in overcoats as $50.00 will buy.

In spite of pessimistic predictions, this will be my banner overcoat year.

Mail orders solicited. On receipt of price and 15c extra for postage, I will ship any of the above-mentioned coats to any section of the country.

COPYRIGHT 1914 THE HOUSE OF KUPPENHEIMER

The Spot-Light Is on the Value-Giver As Never Before

More is expected of everybody now-a-days. Business is learning to cut out waste. Men give more thought to what they are buying, and insist upon getting full value for their money. They look at both sides of a dollar before they let go of it, and try to make both sides work.

THAT means the forging ahead of some concerns and the falling behind of others, for it throws the spot-light on the value-giver. And that's why so many more men than ever before are coming to Kennedy's for Good Clothes and their money's worth this fall.

BUYING low for spot-cash, selling the same way, and with our low Summer Street rent to keep expenses down, we can afford to give so much more for the money than any other store can that our greater value-giving is beyond all question or doubt.

AND besides getting better value for their money, the men who come here have the further advantage of selecting from the largest stock and widest variety of fine merchandise under one roof in New England. Yes, thank you, business is good—exceptionally good—at the Live Store.

The Best Suits $12.50 or $15 Can Buy

Men of unlimited means can afford to take chances, but if $15 is your limit, you'd better play safe and come here. We'll show you between 400 and 500 styles in suits at $12.50 and $15.00 alone—all correctly styled and finely tailored from strictly all wool fabrics in the most wanted patterns. You'll save $3 to $5 under Washington Street prices, and get our guarantee of complete and lasting satisfaction besides, at $12.50 and $15

These Fall Suits from Kuppenheimer

Are a surprise even to us. We thought The House of Kuppenheimer had just about reached the limit of human ingenuity in the styling and tailoring of fine clothes. Yet here they are this season with better merchandise than ever before. There are models here for men of every build, and patterns for every particular personal preference, with a superiority of fit and shape-holding qualities over anything heretofore offered in ready for service garments.

CROWD CHEER FOR BRAVES AS THEY ENTER THE FIELD

By NICK FLATLEY.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—Just before noon today the sun broke through the clouds and shone full and bright on the enormous crowds that were headed by every highway and by-way, for Shibe Park and the first clash of the champion Athletics and the sensational Braves.

All morning a black sky threatened to pour rain and postpone the battle, but it didn't keep the crowd back. Massed in a giant circle, ten deep, all around the Athletics' park, the "rooters," most of whom had been waiting all night, breathed a sigh of relief when the gates opened. The left field bleachers in a twinkling were packed full, the meagre 5,600 seats all being filled with a happy crowd that cheered and sang while waiting for the players to appear.

Fully 10,000 were begging and imploring when the turnstiles was closed and the gate locked.

On every street corner in the city speculators plied a remunerative trade. Thousands, trusting to last moment, became without tickets and had to pay regal tribute.

CROWDS PACKED NEARBY ROOFS.

Hundreds were crowded on temporary stands erected on roof tops at Somerset and Twenty-first streets. Seats on these precarious perches readily brought $3 and $4 from "fans" who wanted to see the battle, but balked at paying the enormous prices asked by the street ticket peddlers.

The breach between Mack and Stallings was not at all closed up and the Brave players refused to dress at Shibe Park and instead donned their armor at the Philadelphia National Park.

They left the Majestic Hotel in special autos at noon and were whirled along Broad street, which was lined on both sides with happy ticket owners heading for the game, to the accompaniment of wild applause and wishes for good luck.

Just before leaving for the scene of the afternoon's tray Manager Stallings smilingly declared that a few hours would find his team "rated at its true quality."

People Used to Call Me "Skinny"

But Now My Name Has Changed, Gained 15 Pounds and Look Like a New Man

A PLUMP, STRONG, ROBUST BODY

"Before I took Sargol people used to call me skinny, but now my name is changed, my whole body is stout. I have gained 15 pounds and am a new man. I look like a new man." declared a man who had just finished the Sargol treatment. "I felt like a new man the first week," continued Mr. Gagnon. "I had no pains. I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I feel like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 28 days."

"Sargol has put 10 pounds on me in 14 days," stated Wm. Roberts. "It has made me sleep well, relief what I ate and enabled me to work with interest and pleasure."

Would you, too, like to quickly put from 10 to 20 pounds of healthy, solid flesh on your body? Would you like to have beautiful rounded limbs, full neck and bust, rose-tinted cheeks, and the whole body filled out with firm, healthy flesh? Then say to-day to Sargol. Don't wait. Don't delay. Don't say it can't be done. Don't say you have tried everything else and nothing helped you. Don't say you have no faith. Sargol has helped others, and it will help you. Sargol has put pounds of flesh on the bodies of thousands of others, and it will do the same for you.

More than half a million thin men and women have gladly made this test, and that Sargol does more than fully realized in every case where it has failed, is best proved by the tremendous business we have done. No druggist has ever failed to return the money if Sargol did not do as we claim. Sargol is sold by druggists everywhere, or you can send for a full size package, postage paid, by enclosing $1.00 (cash or money order) to The Sargol Co., 45-Y Herald Bldg., Binghamton, N. Y. Take Sargol with your meals and watch it work. This test will tell the story.

CHAPTER XV.

In Feller's Place

WHAT am I? What have I done? What am I about to do? shot as forked shadows over the hot lava-flow of Berta's impulse. The vitality that Westerling had felt by suggestion from a still profile rejoiced in a quickening of pace directly she was out of sight of the veranda. All the thinking she had done that afternoon had been in pictures; some saying, some cry, some groan, or some smile went with every picture.

The sitting-room of the tower was empty to other eyes, but not to hers. The lantern was in the corner at hand. After her hastening steps had carried her along the tunnel to the telephone, she set down the lantern and pressed the spring that opened the panel door. Another moment and she would be embarked on her great adventure in the finality of action. That little earpiece became a spectre of conscience. She drew back convulsively and her hands flew to her face; she was a rocking shadow in the thin, reddish light of the lantern.

Conscious mind had torn off the mask from subconscious mind, revealing the true nature of the change that war had wrought in her. She who had resented Feller's part—what a part she had been playing! Every word, every shade of expression, every telling pause of abstraction after Westerling confessed that he had made war for his own ends had been subtly prompted by a purpose whose actuality terrified her.

Her hypocrisy, she realized, was as black as the wall of darkness beyond the lantern's gleam. Then this demoralization passed, as a nightmare passes, with Westerling's boast again in her ears.

When war's principals, enacted by men, were based on sinister trickery called strategy and tactics, should not women, using such weapons as they had, also fight for their homes? Marta's hands swept down from her eyes; she was on fire with resolution.

CHIEF ILL.

Forty miles away a bell in Lanstron's bedroom and at his desk rang simultaneously. At the time he and Partow were seated facing each other across a map on the table of the room where they worked together. No impression of the young vice-chief, no edict of the doctors, could make the old chief take exercise or shorten his hours.

"I know. I know myself!" he said. "I know my duty. And you are learning, my boy, learning!"

Every day the flabby cheeks grew pastier and the pouches under the eyebrows heavier. But there was no dimming of the eagle flashes of the eyes, no weakening of the will. Last night Lanstron had turned as white as chalk when Partow staggered on rising from the table, the veins on his temples knotted blue whipcords. Yet after a few hours' sleep he reappeared with firm step, fresh for the fray.

The paraphernalia around these two was the same as that around Westerling. Only the atmosphere of the staff was different. Each man was performing the part set for him. No man knew much of any other man's part. Partow alone knew all, and Lanstron was trying to grasp all and praying that Partow's old body should still feed the mind with energy. Lanstron was thinner and paler, a new and glittering intensity in his eyes.

When word of Feller's defection came, Lanstron realized for the first time by Partow's manner that the old chief of staff, with all his depression of the telephone scheme as chimerical, had grounded a hope on it.

"There was the chance that we might know—so vital to the defence—what they were going to do before and not after the attack," he said.

Yet the story of how Feller yielded to the temptation of the automatic had made the sanrife of the old war-horse quiver with dramatic breath, and instead of the command of a battery of guns, which Lanstron had promised, the chief made it a battalion. He had drawn down his brows when he heard that Marta had asked that the wire be left intact; he had shot a shrewd, questioning glance at Lanstron and then beat a tattoo on the table and half grinned as he grumbled under his breath.

"She is afraid of being lonesome! No harm done!"

OVER THE WIRE

A week had passed since the Grays had taken the Galland house, and still no word from Marta. The ring of the bell brought Lanstron to his feet with a startled, boyish board.

"Very spring, that tendon of Achilles!" muttered Partow. "And, my boy, take care, take care!" he called suddenly to his sonorous voice, as vast and billowy as his body.

It was Marta's voice and yet not Marta's, this voice that beat in nervous waves over the wire.

"Lanny—Yes I, Lanny! You were right. Westerling planned to make war deliberately to satisfy his ambition. He told me so. The first general attack on the first line of defence is tonight. Westerling says so!" She had to pause for breath. "And, Lanny, I want to know some position of the Browns which is weak—not actually weak, maybe, but some position where the Grays expect terrible resistance and will not find it—where you will let them in!"

"To the same tune—Marta! Marta what?——"

"I am going to fight for the Browns—for my home!"

In the sheer satisfaction of explaining herself to herself, of voicing her sentiments, she sent the picture which had wrought the change moving across the screen before Lanstron's amazed vision. There was no room for interruption on his part, no question or need for one. The wire seemed to quiver with the militant tension of her spirit. It was Marta aflame who was talking at the other end; not aflame for him, but with a purpose that revealed all the latent strength of her personality and daring.

"I shall have to ask Partow. It's pretty big thing."

"Yes—only that is not all my plan, my little plan. After they have taken the first line of defence—and they will get it, won't they?"

"Yes, we shall yield in the end, vivid rather than suffer too great losses there that will weaken the defence on the main line."

"Then I want to know where it is that you want Westerling to attack on the main line, so that we can get him to attack there. That—that will help, won't it?"

"Yes."

"Of course, all the while I shall be getting news from him—even I have proved my loyalty and have his complete confidence—and I'll telephone it to you. I am sure I can get something worth while with you to direct me; don't you think so, Lanny? I'll hold the wire, Lanny. Ask Partow!" she concluded. Of the two she was the steadier.

MARTA'S OFFER

"Well?" said Partow, looking up at the sound of Lanstron's step. Then he half raised himself from his chair at sight of Lanstron with eyes in a daze of brilliancy; a Lanstron with his maimed hand twitching in an outstretched gesture; a Lanstron in the dilemma of being at the same time lover and chief of intelligence. Should he let her make the sacrifice of everything that he held to be sacred to a woman's dilleacy? Should he not return to the telephone and tell her that he would not permit her to play such a part? Partow's voice cut in on his demoralization with the sharpness of a blade.

"Well, what, man, what?" he demanded. He feared that the girl might be dead. Anything that could upset Lanstron in this fashion struck a chord of sympathy and apprehension.

Lanstron advanced to the table, pressed his hands on the edge, and, now master of himself, began an account of Marta's offer. Partow's formless arms lay inert on the table, his soft, pudgy fingers outspread on the map and his bulk settled deep in the chair, while his eagle eyes were seeing through Lanstron, through a mountain range, into the eyes of a woman and a general on the veranda of an enemy's headquarters. The plan meant giving, giving in the hope of receiving much in return. Would he get the return?

"A woman was the ideal one for the task we intrusted to Feller," he mused, "a gentlewoman, big enough adroit enough, with her soul in the work as no paid woman's could be. There seemed no such one in the world!"

"But to let her do it!" gasped Lanstron.

"It is her suggestion, not yours! She offers herself? She wants no persuasion?" Partow asked sharply.

"Entirely her suggestion," said Lanstron. "She offers herself for her country—for the cause for which our soldiers will give their lives by the thousands. It is a time of sacrifice."

Three things women should know about cleaning

1. See how the thousands of particles of dust show when the sun slants in a room. Men of science tell us that the bacteria in this dust is dangerous. In one day a single microbe can multiply into 17,000,000.

2. Bacteria do not thrive as much outdoors as indoors. Outdoors, depending on the locality, from 10 to 300 bacteria are found in a quart of air. Indoors, as many as 250,000 in a quart of air have been found in an ordinary living room. This means that probably billions could be found in the whole room.

3. Comparatively very few bacteria float in the air of rooms. They quickly settle on floors, woodwork, furniture, walls, windows, carpets, rugs, drapery, etc. That is why a disinfectant must always be used in cleaning.

Soap and water is not enough

Mere soap is of little use in cleaning floors, etc., for they cannot kill the millions of bacteria which swarm and multiply in every room.

Practically every one of the most painful, and most dreaded human diseases are caused by these invisible organisms.

If you do not use the proper disinfectant, experiments in your home—no matter how clean you try to keep it—would probably show germs of the worst diseases in every room. They enter every home; they know no social distinction.

With every pail of water used in scrubbing or mopping, pour in a tablespoonful of Sylpho-Nathol. This solution makes a disinfectant 4½ times as strong as a similar solution of pure carbolic acid.

Scrub and mop with this solution, and your home will be cleaner than it could ever possibly be otherwise.

All disinfectants not alike

The United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, in one of its bulletins, has shown that many so-called disinfectants are so weak that they are practically worthless.

Very often substitutes and imitations are offered for Sylpho-Nathol. This is because there is more profit in selling them; and they are trading on the reputation of Sylpho-Nathol.

Sylpho-Nathol has been sold for over thirty years. It is approved by the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service. It is favored by the leading medical men and surgeons, being used in the most delicate surgical operations, because it is so safe and so effective. It has won the confidence of hundreds of thousands of people who use it regularly.

When you want Sylpho-Nathol, insist on getting the real preparation—not an imitation, or weak substitute.

CLEAR, WARM WEATHER FOR FIRST GAME

CROWD RUSHES TO SHIBE PARK EARLY—BRAVES IN A GAY MOOD.

By NICK FLATLEY.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The game is on.

The clouds that hung over Philadelphia early this morning soon dispersed. The sun came asneaking out now and then, and finally stayed out long enough to promise a baseball game.

At dawn a throng of "fans" were at the battlefield. All morning reinforcements of baseball "bugs" rushed to the scene. At noon there were enough at Shibe Park almost to fill the seats.

Whether or not George Stallings really and heartily hates Cornelius McGillicuddy, it will be remembered that he threatened to pin a punch on Connie's seamed proboscis yesterday. It was over the telephone declared that such was his heart's one desire—whether or not he really hates the individual whose brains he will stack up against those of the connie mack this afternoon, or just is pretending to keep his youthful champions in the right fighting spirit, is question. If he is pretending, he's just as good at it as he is at managing.

Philadelphia was awake all night. It's strange for Philadelphia to be awake, if we are to believe what is said about the fair city, but awake it was for the past twenty-four hours. It took the fans from Boston to stir up the real enthusiasm, but when the main body of them arrived on the scene the noise started and it has never hushed.

LID OFF FOR QUAKERS.

And the enthusiasm has aroused the natives. The lid is off and will be off till the Braves and their rivals flit away to fight the second stage of the big collision in Boston.

The city is in gala array. Everywhere flags are flying and banners waving homage to the baseball spirit. In every store window likenesses of the members of the two champion teams greet the eye.

The Philadelphia girls, and they are mighty pretty girls, are wearing the blue ever since the news of Philadelphia baseball hope. Tiny blue pennants, with miniature white elephants of dainty red design with the white head of the Indian, totem sign of the Braves, decorate practically every coat lapel, or flaunt defiantly and boldly from every hat.

The reunion spirit has brought out to its best only by the annual gathering of the red-letter day with the national game, is in the air.

Everybody is happy, though hundreds of thousands have had troubles about tickets or hotel accommodations. But the general optimism will put flight to gloom, and while today's fight there will be many a mad and disappointed individual in this part of the country, this morning all is serene.

STRONG WITH THE BIG STICK.

Gowdy and Maranville under the new order of things have joyfully styled themselves the "Athens fighting" and threaten to knock down the stand in left field before the series ends.

In practice yesterday the pair of them knocked the cover off the ball, the much-to-be-missed Rabbit only denies he is even engaged, twice sending screeching liners into the left field stand against the fast ball pitching.

That Stallings is just a wee bit afraid that Deal's weak leg, which handicapped him early in the season, may go back on him at any time was evident yesterday when he put George Whitted, who can hit a baseball further than a politician can make promises, through a long, hard drill on the difficult corner. The former Cardinal looked good and worked in well with the rest of the combination.

The city is wild about the Braves. This morning, as the players gathered in the corridor of the Majestic Hotel, after the final meeting in which the "Miracle Man" gave his last instructions and urged his fighting outfit to go forth and battle their stout hearts out from the umpire's call of play ball, a crowd that made passage difficult gave the champions the greatest sendoff ever tendered a visiting team in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA WITH BRAVES.

For Philadelphia is with the Braves.

Never has a squad of players gone forth for battle happier or in better mood. The Braves were singing and joking, as in mid-season, with nothing greater ahead than a mere game with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Everybody was peaceful, and to listen one would be inclined to weep for the sinners of the three-time champions of the world.

Captain Johnny Evers, who has been smiling ever since the old man's pennant was clinched, was likewise in joyous vein, and greeted the gang forth into his fourth gruelling World's Series struggle.

"Which we are to get these chaps," was the way he put it. "They've been telling how easy we were going to be, but put this on your book, we'll be just as soft as we were for the Giants and some of those other sensational League champions."

Rabbit Maranville, too, the human dynamo of the team, swapped quips with the crowd and made everybody feel much more than one would expect and single year famous star to.

With Whitted, Jake Hank Gowdy and Big Tom Hughes, the tiny Springfield wonder, long forlorn in the quartet which feelingly warbled "Don't you remember where the Braves were in September?" for the edification of the crowd.

That was the spirit of the team all the way through, the veterans who have been down the line in hard struggle being afraid of no new optimism of the youngsters, who, like breaking colts, have been winning so much that they just can't figure on losing.

All the players are fresh and well rested after spending a night nothing out of the ordinary, save the movies, shows, which were thrown open to the champions, while those of the team religiously inclined, visited churches and prayed for success.

Manager Stallings, wearing the famous "victory smile," talked and chatted with his charges what time he was not busy telling the hordes of visiting newspaper men that he had half a dozen pitchers any of whom he might use if he thought fit.

A few days ago Boss George was somewhat nervous on occasion, evidently having been slightly affected by the atmosphere he will be under. But now that the actual conflict is at hand, he is satisfied that he has done his best and that his charges will follow suit.

HAVING AT 10 TO 7.

Whether or not we have said, his Braves will fight first, last and all the time.

The natural and confident manner in which the stars of 1914 have been conducting themselves has influenced more or less the assurance of the Athletic adherents, and there has been a shift in betting odds, which according to some of our lynx-eyed experts was to materialize with the arrival of the call to arms, has not materialized.

This morning it was the same old story, about 10 to 7 or 8 for the "serious" and even money on the opening game.

The influx of Boston fans, and every train brought them in by the hundred, kept the bubbling up and every New Englander who put in an appearance immediately started to hunt and scour for the Braves at the slightest opportunity.

When the gates for the rush for seats opened at 8 o'clock this morning the mob that had been packed around the entrance all through the night almost tore down the gates in its anxiety to get within the coveted enclosure.

POLICE HAVE ALL-NIGHT JOB.

A big battalion of police took charge of affairs and preserved some sort of order during the night, though naturally there was more or less argument when supporters of the different teams, with the long wait and the gathering excitement, banished neutrality and got down to figures.

Connie Mack also is as silently confident as his rival about his dear Athletics, was the same old Connie this morning, saying very little except to remark that his team was in good shape and would play its best game.

All the Mack players, too, were sure of success, and showed no traces of nervousness, though they did not act with the carefree happiness of the Braves. As has been their custom for the last few years, all the Mackmen retired early and were up early and out at Shibe Park, where the Czar of American League management had the first official ultimatum to issue to his stars.

GAFFNEY WINS POINT.

The bitter feeling against the Athletics was somewhat lessened when President Gaffney yesterday managed to get the hundred extra tickets that he had promised the Royal Rooters.

He arrived in Philadelphia early and had to put in the greater part of the day before he finally met with success.

Boston folks consequently brightened up a bit, though the tickets were not for them. They just were glad that so many more real Boston rooters could get in to cheer for the team that has put the city back on the baseball map.

Speculators crowded the hotels throughout the city last night and this morning and reaped a harvest. There were plenty of tickets in the hands of the wholesale sellers, and fancy prices were the rule. Paste boards offered at double the original coat were snapped up like hot cakes. The majority of specs, however, generally held out and received much higher prices. The baseball fans who have descended in hordes on the city figure the Braves have a chance to win and want to see them do it.

ON THE FIRING LINE

What it means to most men.

There are many true heroes that have perished in the European war who never smelled powder, but who succumbed to sickness after hard campaigning—coupled with bad water and lack of food. The sick and debilitated man is as much out of place in his struggle for life and existence as he would be on the firing line. On the other hand the strong, vigorous man, his veins filled with rich, red blood, has an enormous advantage in the battle—position he may be fated to occupy in war or business.

The long and certain action of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in driving all harmful germs and impurities from the blood, sets in motion the repair processes which works actively on the diseased membrane where Catarrh flourishes—be it clogged or where the skin gives warning of the bad blood beneath by showing pimples and boils, also the skin clears up and becomes wholesome and ruddy.

Thus by building up a new and perfect covering and carrying out of the system the Catarrh inflicted matter by way of the blood, liver and kidneys, Catarrh is overcome and permanently conquered.

There is not a drop of alcohol or any narcotic in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a pure vegetable remedy there is a mighty alterative power which neutralizes the blood impurities with pure, rich blood, not only curing Catarrhal conditions wherever located, but vitalizes the stomach, liver, bowels and every organ of the body. People who suffer humiliation and mental misery because of Pimples, Skin rash, Blotches, Eruptions, Boils, Carbuncles, are especially benefited. It is not a secret remedy as its full formula is printed on wrapper.

All dealers in medicines can supply Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or send 50 cents in one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial box of tablets.

A Little Thief Must Return the Stolen Watch. Financial Thieves Should Return the Stolen Railroad Funds

1914, by the Star Company.

If you catch a little man with his hand in your pocket and your watch in his hand the first thing in order is for the thief to give back the watch.

But when an eminently respectable financier is caught with his hand in the pockets of ten thousand stockholders and their money in his hand, the most that has been suggested hitherto was that he should resign from the board of directors—for a little while.

It does not seem to have occurred to the American people, or the American judges, or any American administration, that big thieves should restore their plunder like little thieves.

Now, in the case of the looting of the New Haven Railroad, there appears to be dawning some slight conception of the fact that STOLEN PROPERTY should be returned.

A gentleman named Billard, prominent in a minor way in New Haven matters, has been sued, with some others, to compel the return of $3,824,147.00 to New Haven stockholders.

We have no right or desire to express an opinion in Mr. Billard's individual case. He may be a snow-white dove, as he says, and he may not.

But there is no question whatever that someone stole not merely three millions, but tens of millions, from that railroad.

The little men attacked in the suit now pending did their stealing, if any, in a very small way.

They were merely little Wall Street Lazaruses, picking up the crumbs that fell from the table of the rich man that did the real stealing.

The big thieves should be found. The little ones, of course, should be punished also, but punishing minor criminals is an old story.

Punishing the big rascals, putting them in jail, is the important work. It should be done in spite of certificates from their physicians testifying that they are not very well.

When we ask a ragged pickpocket to tell what he stole we don't accept an excuse from his physician. It is time to stop accepting excuses from physicians of more dangerous criminals.

And this New Haven suit, although it does pick out Mr. Lazarus, and for the time being lets Mr. Dives go free, is a good sign.

An Old Indian Wiser Than the White Men

When Will They Learn His Wisdom, and "Fight No More Forever"?

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company.

The red Indians lived by fighting and hunting. The tribe not strong enough to defend itself was killed.

The tribes that practiced cannibalism grew powerful. They always had meat to give their children, even in Winter.

To hunt buffalo and the deer part of the time, and hunt men and women the rest of the time, was the Indians' business and pleasure—when they did not hunt men, they were hunted and they died.

But even among these savages there was hatred of fighting—weariness of killing.

Red Jacket, the great Indian chief of Western New York, whose bronze statue is in the public park in Buffalo, got his name, "Sa-go-ye-wat-ha," meaning "he keeps them awake," because he talked to his assembled braves gathered near Batavia for twenty-four hours, to persuade them not to fight against the whites—incidentally saving them from destruction.

Among the great Indians many, including the most powerful, were the advocates of peace. We see now in an interesting periodical published by the Indian boys of the Carlisle school a quotation from a great fighter and thinker, the Indian Chief Joseph. He said:

> "I am tired of fighting.
> Our chiefs are killed.
> The old men are all dead.
> It is cold and we have no blankets. The little children are freezing to death. Hear me, my chiefs; my heart is sick and sad. From where the sun now stands I will fight no more forever!"

When shall we hear talk like this from the fighting white savages of Europe?

Their chiefs are killed in hundreds and in thousands, and their YOUNG MEN are dead. Soon it will be cold, already the children are suffering hunger.

What a rebuke to modern civilization you see in these words of the old Indian: "From where the sun now stands, I will fight no more forever!"

When will the men that call themselves civilized utter those words and mean them?

Extra—Bungalow in the Coop

SAY TAKE THAT IN TO THE BAGGAGE CAR
CLUCK! CLUCK! CLUCK!
MR BUNGALOW IS BUILDING A COOP FOR ME
BUNGALOW HAS BUILT HIM SELF IN HELLO PA WHY DON'T YOU COME OUT?
T.E POWERS

You didn't think Bungalow had been pinched, did you? It's merely a chicken coop into which he has built himself.

By the way, how is it that every commuter falls for chicken? No, no, we don't mean the kind you mean. Feathered ones, we're talking about. Of course, there are some commuters——. But there, no gossip. The commuter with the first egg laid by his own hens is a worse pest than the young father with the most wonderful baby in the world. You know the stuff: "Most babies are stupid, but little Robert's different. Why, this morning——"

P. S.—While this was being written, Mr. Powers went home and forgot all about letting Bungalow out of the coop. Well, well!

LAUGH WITH TOM POWERS WHENEVER YOU CAN. THERE'S A GREAT CHANCE IN NEXT SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

When Woman Proposes

It Will Be More Dignified and Modest for a Woman to Come Squarely Out and Pop the Question Than It Is for Her to Angle for a Man, as She Is Obliged to Do Now

By DOROTHY DIX

In a recent article in this column I expressed the opinion that it would make enormously for the happiness and well being of the world for woman to have a right to select her mate and to have the same privilege of popping the question that men enjoy.

I have received many letters on the subject, two of which bring up novel and interesting points.

One man who heartily agrees with my point of view thinks that changed economic conditions make it highly desirable for women to take the initiative in love making in many cases.

He points out that a poor young man making a small salary lacks the nerve to ask a woman to share the hardships of his lot, although she might be perfectly willing to do so, or she might be able by adding her own income to his to supply the financial backing that is necessary to make any marriage a success.

Romeo, for instance, couldn't say: "Juliet, I love you, but I only get twenty-five dollars a week, and we can't get married on that; but you also get twenty-five dollars a week, and on fifty we could get married and be happy as the day is long." On the other hand, Juliet could make such a proposition to Romeo, and it would be a proof of devotion strong enough to draw money on at the bank.

Likewise, if convention gave woman the right to pick out the man she wanted to spend the next thirty or forty years with and ask him to be her husband, it would do more than anything else to ameliorate the hard matrimonial lot of the poor little rich girl. The reason that divorces are so common among millionaires is because a very rich girl seldom gets a chance at marrying a real man.

The worth while men are so afraid of being thought fortune hunters that they keep away and the unfortunate heiress becomes the prey of some bankrupt aristocrat, or brainless fop in her own set.

The Rich Girl's Chance

Rich girls would marry intelligent, wide awake, hustling poor men just as often as rich men marry pretty, bright, poor girls if they had the privilege of looking about them and picking and choosing as their brothers have.

As a matter of fact, one of the happiest marriages I ever knew was one in which a very rich girl did usurp the prerogative of a queen and ask a poor man to marry her. He was glad enough to do it, but his pride would have kept him from ever making the first move.

Another correspondent, also a man, objects to woman proposing, on the ground that it would degrade her, and give a man the right to insult her. He says that when a man offers marriage to a woman it is an honor to her, because he undertakes to support her, but that if a woman proposed marriage to a man she would merely be offering him herself.

This objection seems to me rather far fetched. To begin with no woman who runs the domestic machinery of a home, whether it be managing a big establishment or doing the sewing, cooking and scrubbing for a family with her own hands, is self-supporting and earns her own board and keep if any woman in the world does. Just in actual material service that has a market value the wife is quite with her husband. She gives him value received for her food and clothes.

Moreover, there is not one man in a million who looks upon matrimony from the sordidly materialistic standpoint. When he thinks of marriage he thinks of it in its spiritualistic essence, and when he dreams of a wife his vision is of her bringing to him a limitless devotion, a loyalty that never fails. He sees her standing by him through thick and thin, watching over his sick bed, ministering to him with a love that finds its finest happiness in service.

Too Precious for Money

What a woman brings to marriage is something so precious that no money can pay for it, and that is what every normal minded man sees in it, and there would be small danger of any one ever committing the sacrilege of rejecting the offer of this sacred thing with ribald insult. If it did happen, the woman could only thank her guardian angel on her knees for having saved her from such a brute.

After all, the whole proposition goes back to the one contention that marriage is the most important thing in life to both men and women, and that they should have an equal right to select their mates, and that as conventions now obtain women suffer a great handicap in being denied this privilege.

Also that it would be both more dignified and modest for a woman to be able to come squarely out and pop the question to a man she wanted to marry than it is for her to have to try by various and sundry devices of manner and dress to attract his notice and inveigle him into asking her to marry him.

Men shouldn't object to the innovation. It would all be to their advantage. Every eligible man knows that he is pursued by women who want to marry him, and he'd have a much better chance to escape if they came out into the open instead of laying traps for him into which he is liable to stumble at any minute. As for the man who said "yes" to the woman who was enough in love with him to pop the question, he'd get a wife who would break the record as a husband spoiler. And every woman would be happy because she would have the man who was her choice instead of having had to take the one who was her only chance.

How Helen Helped

Chapter I—The New Stenographer

"HEY, KID, WHO'S THE PEACH?"

"HEY, kid, who's the peach?"

You sure always were a bear at picking them."

Paul Van Buren asked the question, as he leaned over Frank Deming's desk, with an insinuating toss of his head toward Helen.

Paul was the son of the owner of the firm that Helen worked for. He had just returned from a trip around the world, and about all he had ever done in life was to spend his father's money.

Frank Deming, the head of the department in which Helen worked, was young, a hard worker—but after office hours usually stopped in a little saloon near the office, with some of his acquaintances for a few "pegs." Frank was usually the last to want to leave the saloon at night. But no matter how late the evenings lasted, Frank was usually in the office on the stroke of the clock, sometimes with only one hour's sleep. But he was so big and at present healthy and clear-eyed, you could not tell his often nervous condition, unless perchance you noticed closely and saw his hand shake a bit unsteadily at times. His friends had often asked him why he didn't cut it out and told him it would "get him" sooner or later. To which he answered: "Why should I cut it out and be miserably lonesome—nowhere to go but a furnished room, and, besides, I'm awfully tired of reading. I'm bored to death with the things that most people like."

Then he would sometimes say to himself with a far-away look in his eyes: "Maybe I WILL cut it out one day—if it isn't too late then." But since Helen had been in the office, Frank's acquaintances had noticed, by degrees, quite a change in him. Frank would often catch himself looking at Helen, day dreaming, and if one had stood close to him, might have heard him mutter: "What a dandy girl!"

He and young Van Buren had been rather chummy formerly. They had been on many "parties" together, and while Frank detested many things that Paul did, he would pass over them in his happy-go-lucky way.

Until Paul asked that flippant question about Helen, Frank had never quite realized how much he thought of her. Instead of joking with Paul about it, he bent closer over his desk, and the muscles of his big hands clenched.

When Helen Hawthorn's father died she realized that she would have to go out and work for a living to help support her mother and little sister. She had a good education. Her father and mother had kept her in school, even when they had hard, hard trouble to figure out where the next month's rent was coming from. After leaving high school she had gone to business college and learned stenography. She was now working for a large wholesale firm, and was looked upon as the star stenographer of the office force. Helen was not only fast at taking dictation and on her machine, but was always the first at the office in the morning, and when there was any extra work to be done the last to leave it at night. As Paul continued to talk in his insinuating way about Helen, Frank could stand it no longer and said, "That's a good girl, Paul, and if I were you I'd cut that talk out."

"Ho! ho!" said Paul. "Pardon me if I stepped on your toes a bit."—H. C.
